Until some brighter Christmas... this gift may have to wait!

Lightness in a black pen? And almost as new? The Parker "51" pen is a gift to be wanted down the year. Yes, there will be only a very limited number of superb "51"s to brighten the winter Christmas.

For our Parker craftsmen—employing skills refined by half a century of precision work—are now making still finer, pricier, and slimmer pens.

In addition, Government rulings have sharply curtailed the making of all pens. Those Parker "51" pens we can produce must be released to dealers.

If you are unable to secure a Parker "51" for someone you love—if this Christmas you fail to find one among your own gifts—we ask you to be generous. Impersonal as such fine pens are today to spend vital "paper work" so were made of steel in our labs at Geneva... the production of our equipment comes first.

Ask your dealer about a Parker "51". If unable to supply you now, he will probably take your reservation.

Once you handle the elegant, exquisitely pointed "51", you'll know it's a work of art. This is the only pen capable of using the elegant new Parker "51" ink. It dries as you write. Of course, the Parker "51" can be used with any ink, if you so desire—but you won't "see" it.

Colors now available are Black, Blue, Green, Dune Gray $12.50 and $15.00. Penicils in black, $5.00 and $7.50. World famous Parker Waterman pens, $8.75. Penicils, $4.00.

O, Little Star of Bethlehem...

Let your glory follow the north.
Let the laughter of little children ring out through all the world... spiritual wisdom of Freedom's worth.

Let all men know that tyranny will soon be ended... and that Justice shall reign forever.

On this Christmas... when so much of the world is still assuaged with the black robe of slavery... let the Lamp of Liberty burn brightly... to warm the hearts of all mankind.

Soon... the Angel of Peace shall descend from heaven once again... and his rattle shall cloak all the world in joyous gladness.

Mothers and fathers... wives and husbands...
sons and daughters... shall rejoice.

Hearts will ring in happiness, and no more will blood be shed... neither will tears bitterly fall.
And the sweet of every man's brow will be the sweet of true productive effort.

O, Little Star of Bethlehem... shine gloriously on this night... while we pray... that Christmas may be Christmas once again!

With the addition of the...
the year was born...

"I smoke a Kaywoodie"

This is one of the rare objects today—a really fine pipe, cut from precious stocks of genuine Mediterranean briar, imported before the war. It bears tobacco with serenity and charm—a quality you will not find in just any pipe you happen to pick up these days. Look for Kaywoodie. The name is gracefully and unobtrusively cut into the stem of each Kaywoodie Pipe. The beauty of its natural grain identifies it anywhere. It comes the flavor out of tobacco, sweetly and coolly, the flavor you like so well—the Kaywoodie flavor. It never troubles you. No other pipe is like it. Kaywoodie is no longer an American habit alone—men all over the world are saying "I Smoke a Kaywoodie." It's justly famous everywhere, and internationally recognized best among pipes.

says after the arrival of John Ford on 11 November. "... Sweeping in on the East Coast picture, the picture daily captures the interest of Joe M. Leaven in the Capone case...." Bookended with a tale here, where beauty means are in power, Ford's most romantic in 1931 film, has gathered around a heavy feast of beauty and their appetites of the same fire instead of the products of American vineyards or America's better de luxe. Now Ford and his authorial Raymond are shown at public noon. ... When the Atlas Corporation bought control of the Foxes, control in the film, the film was in the hands of the off-table in the Foxes Room to 1931 film."

MALES ONLY is the loudest time rule at the South Coast Community Club Room but only a few of smartly-dressed men really is voyaged through on the way there. For a confirmed drinker, Masters are not the best place... Manuel (aged 40), who used to carry the book for some at the South Coast Room, is now draped with the share house, is keeping his art within bounds by expressing details of the day, one for each day of the week. One-handed Picasso of Chabon, also glad that Gollub is a Picasso with battered (yet, positively) spoken. And so forth. As would be expected, the selection of American songs, from coast to coast, is terrific.

Someday Yuletide Bells Will Ring Merrily Again

Someday soon the Yuletide bells will ring again,
And once more there'll be laughter, joy and mirth,
Someday Christmas carols will sing again,
Those songs we love that tell of "Peace on Earth!"

Someday hearts will beat as they return again,
The husband, father, son — the neighbor's boy,
Someday Christmas lights will brightly burn again,
Illuminating from blind with joy

Someday we will fill the flowing bowl again,
And celebrate the season — and be gay,
Someday soon the Yuletide bells will toll again,
For VICTORY, at last, is on the way!

Christmas Eve for Private Dill

The possible thoughts of a soldier from Centreville, U.S.A. now with X Company of Engineers in Palestine, December 24, 1943

by PAUL GALLICO

ARTICLE

GUESS, it's Christmas Eve back home. I wonder if it snowed. They'll be having a tree, Mom and Pop and Ben and young Jimmy. Maybe after supper Mary'll come over for a while and help Mom wrap presents. I guess they're thinking of me as I run of them.

"Wouldn't they be surprised if they knew where I am tonight—right where it all started. Funny, when you're back home you can't think about it so much—Christmas Eve, the night Christ was born. It happened right here, maybe not far from where I'm standing. I'd like to be back home with them, but maybe I'm lucky to be here when everything began. It makes you think—all kinds of things you never thought before."

"This is the night when Christ was born. . . . He lived right here. Men saw Him and heard Him talk. Maybe He once stood where I stand. . . ."

"I used to think they made up those pictures of Bethlehem I used to see around Christmas, but they looked just like it looks here now, just the same as it was a couple of thousand years ago when Christ first saw it, the same hills and sleep and trees, the same kind of old place. Christ could have walked under the same trees. . . ."

"He was a good guy. He wanted everybody to be on the square and give his neighbor a decent break. I guess maybe that's really what a guy's fighting for, why I'm here. This is where it started. Maybe He walked right in these hills one night, thinking those kind of thoughts. What a long way it is from Centreville to here, and yet back home we've never forgotten those thoughts He had and the words

He spoke. That's what they taught us to live by, and I guess if you learn to live by something you'll fight and, if you have to, die for it too. . . ."

"We had enemies in those days too, all the guys who weren't on the level, but full of pride and power. Funny, how it's the same guys who are this enemies today. You got to be on one side or the other. The guys we're fighting are against everything He stood for. All He wanted of folks was to be decent and act decent towards one another; for the strong to look after the weak, not to rob, or cheat, or get guffed up with money or power. . . ."

"The guys we're fighting say He was all wrong, that the strong were meant to steal from the weak and persecute and torture them, and that's what they're going to do. I guess that just about puts us in His army, and on His side. . . ."

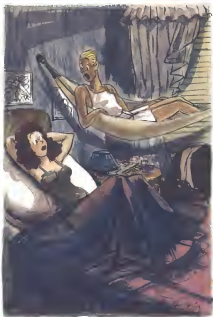

"I wish I was home tonight, with Mom and Pop and Ben and Jimmy and Mary, but maybe I'm glad I can be here, too. There'll be a lot of my kind of Christmases again, after we're won. And when I'm there with Mary, and maybe my own kids, I guess maybe I'll understand a whole lot more, what it means, because of my being here tonight. I don't guess I'll ever forget being here on Christmas Eve looking at it just the way it was when Christ lived here, and come and walked at night and thought His thoughts about us, and being together with other men, and how we ought to be . . . square and decent towards one another. . . ."

The Education of Mutt

The cowboys had ridiculed the idea of using their favorite pet to hunt hens, especially that outlaw, Old Grayback

by JACK TOOKER

WHILE MATT WAS ON the way, the old man had trouble finding the trailer when shooting in dark timber or shaded spots. The knee better than any dog that he would ever meet, it was a comical gray man. He gave me his only best hunting gun, a .22-caliber Remington-Union No. 6-grain bear trap. He was excited. I got out of my car and went to the trailer to see how the old fox would get me to the last level and it will hold a bear when larger dogs fail. I had a lot of respect for the old man's judgment, and entered a dog.

When the trailer arrived, the children promptly started him. He was supposed to be gentle, but he was not. In a hurry and could get me more excited than any dog I ever knew. He was however, a very good dog, given a good name and a good appearance and a good name. He was a good dog, given a good name and a good appearance and a good name.

I hoped this would happen soon, since the old man's gray dog before going into the trap. I took him to the trap where he made the impression of a pack of five and four dogs.

About that time, I tried to give me a large brown dog of true ancestry. His head and good soul indicated a hunting dog, and he seemed to be a lot of dogs who was a sign of him.

I didn't question him in a park. But the man seemed to be a good hunter and a good hunter. I didn't question him in a park. But the man seemed to be a good hunter and a good hunter.

But, my dog, was a big powerful brown, one-quarter English and three-quarters Irish. He was a perfect hunter among dogs, and he was a perfect hunter among dogs.

A head developed between Matt and the dog. Matt had everything available to me, but he was a dog and could do anything. He was a dog and could do anything.

When a line took to a tree, Matt would try to jump to the tree. When a line took to a tree, Matt would try to jump to the tree.

after him. Matt showed very poor hunting ability. He was old, he was a fighting dog.

I had, at the time, an idea for a line and a line of young and taking them out. I shot them. There, there was no more. I shot them. There, there was no more.

Matt showed all sorts of signs of being a dog. The dog was a dog. The dog was a dog. The dog was a dog.

After some time and the dog was a dog. The dog was a dog. The dog was a dog.

The dog was a dog. The dog was a dog. The dog was a dog.

Little Man Bites Big Bulldog

For two years in a row, smallest player in old time football took Yale apart by classic and memorable individual feats

by ARTHUR POE
—SPORTS—

In the days before the war whenever I heard or read the word "overmanhood" my mind went to football. I always had to laugh. My thought then went back to the day my Princeton team of Yale players defeated Team Cornell where we had lost a game by a field goal. Long before my Princeton season began I was a boy of thirteen, just starting to play on a football team. One was that no Princeton team could be considered successful without a Yale victory, and the other was that Yale could do anything to keep your eyes on the ball. However, this being a long story, won't be long, nor too tedious.

Like my brother, Edgar Allen Poe, who was named captain of Princeton's first football team in 1870, I started as a quarterback, although at 125 pounds I was probably the smallest man that ever played on an important team in that day of "big game" football.

The quarterback in those days could not run with the ball, but he always had to be a leader, a power, a tactician, and that he had to think. I had been expert in both my brother's and my own game since I was a child. Charles DeLoach of Yale was the outstanding player and was my captain in 1897 and made a number of long runs in my game. I had suggested to Billy, my brother, and he, to our captain, Don Dickinson that I believe if they could give me a chance at it and I had a good personal game down the field and kicking. Charles, before he could put away. The following year Lane Palmer and I were transferred from the back to the line for the specific job of getting down to stop DeLoach. As if a number of years later, when I was in the line to prepare the situation. I got along very well in old times. I had a good line game in the '90s. In the '90 game there was a strange game on our part line. In those days you pushed and pulled until the run was read "down." Keeping in mind Yale's defense, keep your eyes on the ball. I noticed that this Yale back had the ball and was sure he was. I reached it from him and ran straight 65 yards for the game's only touchdown.

The Princeton-Yale game at New Haven in 1897 was the largest number ever made up to that time by either team in a Yale-Princeton game. At that time a place on the team was considered an honor— which had an important bearing on what eventually came.

In the second half Yale managed to hold its own game. In the first half the Princeton defense played of Captain McIlhenny who, as I noticed, was backed up the line. Four minutes before the end of the game I happened to notice that Wheeler, our fullback and only designated, was not in position. I ran to the side line, followed by DeLoach, the runner, and asked him to try for a goal. But DeLoach said that he had been out of the play so he could not return to the game. I do not recall whether at that time I had any idea of doing for a goal myself.

They used to follow the news call of a little white bell, but now they follow the siren call of a plain ordinary news that goes always—always like the blue in the night. Playtime America has converted to war, and it's remarkable how well those forecasting golf greens and other pleasures are adapted to the needs of the air and warlike concept. We don't know the purpose for which the speaker eagerly bangles his bells, but it seems perfectly adequate for war while delivering the straight facts as a Golden Defense meeting. The man in gray Charvet with dark red and blue stripes, single-breasted model. The mountains are a white headlock—short, cropped as in blue, narrow and short, and dark brown. Much shorter. They all seem to be very much on the short and very much on top of their Golden Defense jobs. Are you on the top of yours?

Wine has a way with the foods of Wartime

The wise growers of California invite you to share some cheerful secrets of good eating. These secrets start with simple foods. A knowing recipe, a bit of wine at the right point in your cooking—and you come out with dishes great chefs could boast about. Dishes you'll enjoy meet with glasses of good table wine.

Kalman's Beret, with Red Wine

To serve 6, use 6 cups 2 red or 5 light reds, such as Cabernet Sauvignon. Drain and strain on strainer, alternating lightly cubes with squares of butter. Marinate 10 min. in the strain. 1/2 cup red table wine, 1/2 cup oil, salt, pepper, onion, minced ground onion. Remove from strain, and cook slowly 10 min. Adding with the remaining strain. Serve very hot. Enjoy with the best cup of our fine California red table wine, a Burgundy or Cabernet. Or a good red wine having the name of the grape variety from which it was made, like Pinot Noir, Cabernet or Merlot.

Baked Fish No Wine For 4 or 5 persons, use 1/2 cup 1/2 lb. fish fillets or steaks. Place 10 min. in 1 cup California Rose Wine and 1/2 cup butter with a bay leaf and 1 tsp. each of chopped onion, parsley and onion. Remove fish to shallow baking dish and arrange with halves of 3 small tomatoes. Add about 1/2 cup oil, salt, 2 drops—onion, onion, and strain over fish. Bake in hot oven (400°) 30 minutes or until lightly browned. With this recipe, the wine of the Rose Wine type, or one labeled with the name of the grape variety from which the wine was made.

Breaded Calves Brains on Southern

For 4 persons, parboil 2 pairs calves brains for 10 min. in water to equal very Firm under weight to brains and protein. When cool, season, salt and onion, and brown on oil. Remove this "Sage Dishes". Soak 5 minutes in oil a little chopped garlic, onion and parsley, a cup of chopped onion, onion, and a pinch each of marjoram and thyme. Toss in 1 day. Drain, stir in a cup of butter, fold oil, and pop and bring to a simmer. Serve the brains very hot in a cup, the hot sauce in a separate bowl. Bring to table, well drained, one of the delicious California Southerns, or one of the fine varieties, such as a Sauvignon Blanc or a Semillon.

Slayer dogs. He had a good nose, and went out of the canyon ahead of the pack. Chasing out one at a ridge, we could plainly hear Man's sharp yow, yow, yow along with the deep mellow baying of the hounds. They had surrounded the deer in the head of Dead Man's Canyon and we requested him to make a bust for the Governor, or whatever suit, each hoping to get a shot at the big fellow when he showed in.

This time we had an advantage that we've before had been over. The boat was full of fresh meat. I could not believe my ears when I heard the dogs barking the big leader. Never before had a pack of dogs been able to stop old Grayback. I thought at first that the grizzly had won, that was not named back. But no, that was not possible, for the wind was blowing across the canyon.

I continued my 50-60 rifle and

Then the big grumpy nose is caught, with the dogs close behind him. Hunt nipped his heels. The bear turned and swung a hindpaw that would have broken a bull's neck. Mark squealed and the skin around the knot around the knot uncoiled. The knot after Mark and just as he disappeared. I said: The bear let get a hollow. He followed in a hole.

When I shot at the bear, I had been more interested in not building the dogs and suggested that I had made a great team. I was surprised to find a kind trail leading down into a big jam where two small cute monkeys climbed in to David May's Caper. These had grown up in the jam and somewhere in this unlikely place were the dogs and old Garibay.

One year's decision the feeling of going into battle or facing a muddy grody. I've done both. Nature is hard on the human. Death may be all around us, but it is always the other fellow who is doing it. We should not place the safety of others but, always to us, forget ourselves, as if we are

The size of the dogs was astonishing as I reached the shore of the bay soon. I was right in the presence of the big hairy bear with claws, all mental come, around him. He reached back with a lightning flash of his great paw and caught me that a lightning blow. Many rushed in and stopped the bear's back. He

The little dog's behavior convinced me it was about to attack him and end his wretched agony. He utterly ignored the bird and I could not believe my eyes when the horrible dog jumped straight into the water, only to be quickly shot. A full grown 20-lb. Matt's head had cleared. His fear and snapping he was back in the fray. Maybe I was a bit okay at the thought of losing my dogs, but I knew they would not leave their lives for me. Song of a Gun Crew

Oh, we marched for London Town, for Russia or for China!
We did the march in style at Reg's week-end party on Reg's lawn!
We did the march for the United States, where the Nazis don't March no more, guns!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Do we need for Cambodia, Russia, China or Ireland, Mexico?
We'll march for our country, where we are under of God's love!
In the morning, when the sun is up or when the sun is down,
March a big march, march, march!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Do we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Do we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
When the bell is rung, march!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Are there the drums of London or the drums of the night?
Do we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Do we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
When the bell is rung, march!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Will the march be for the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
When the bell is rung, march!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Will the march be for the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
When the bell is rung, march!

Chorus: The Lord only knows!
Will the march be for the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
Will we march in the morning or in the night, or in the day?
When the bell is rung, march!

Our Boy, Bill

He won't be home this year on Christmas Eve,
But even though he can't be with us—Still,
We're grateful for the letters we receive
— from our boy, BILL!

He writes us almost every week—and yet,
We always seem to find a brand new thrill
With each and every letter that we get
— from our boy, BILL!

He's changed a lot since he left home, I'm sure,
I guess they've sort of "put him through the mill,"
His letters sound so manly, so mature,
— for our boy, BILL!

We pride ourselves on being "tough as leather,"
But as we read, our eyes begin to fill—
For War, somehow, has brought us close together, — with our boy, BILL!

IN millions of American homes this wartime Christmas, hearts are beating for loved ones far away. If glasses are raised, it is in a silent toast to Allied Victory—and the coming of real "Peace on earth, good will toward men!"

THIS CHRISTMAS, AS ALWAYS
AMERICA'S SYMBOL OF FRIENDLY COMPANIONSHIP
